Town: Goscote, Walsall

Property: Goscote Hospital (former Nurses Accommodation Block)

Remarks: Built 1928 in the Georgian Neo-Classical Revival style and set in attractive and spacious grounds with mature trees which contribute to its setting. The three storey building has had a varying medical related history. It opened in 1930 as an Isolation Unit for Infectious Diseases, especially in the treatment of tuberculosis. A pavilion was added in 1933 (now demolished due to storm damage) and an administration block in 1936. Became known as Goscote Hospital when the NHS was formed in 1948, but carried on specialising in treatments of TB until the 1970s. The building was then used for geriatric patients before finally becoming nurses accommodation in the 1990s. The building is built with red facing brick laid in a Flemish bond with a hipped slate roof and various limestone dressings. The windows are sashed in a typical Georgian style and have varying header treatments from decorative keystones, limestone lintels to segmented arches. The windows have a regular spacing giving it a formal, symmetrical and impressive appearance. The first floor and some of the second floor windows have been replaced in UPVC units but these do not detract from the overall form and interest of the building. Some of the ground floor windows have been blocked up. The right hand wing has bay window with Flemish gable decoration. The principal front entrance has semi-circular header, though has now been blocked in. The entrance on the left hand wing still has its doorway in-situ with timber double doors with a decorative fanlight, set and framed within a limestone doorcase. Single storey extension to rear, presumed to be the 1936 administration block.

Town: Walsall

Property: No. 146 Former Abraham Lincoln PH.

Remarks: Dating from c.1870, two storeys and three bays to frontage. Executed in red brick with terracotta details the centre bay is gabled with a balustrade parapet on each side, topping a combination of pilasters and cornice. On the first floor the centre bay has an elaborate oriel window with curved glass sections, there are narrow sash windows to each side. Decorative floral relief in terracotta with 'President Lincoln' in stylised script above oriel window. The ground floor has a modern shop front and the premises are currently used as a travel agency and video library. 2006

Street: Stafford Street

Town: Walsall

Property:No. 154

Imposing detached Mid-late C19 building rising to three storeys in height. The ground floor has a long original shop front extended out towards the highway with a recessed central doorway. The shop window has carved wooden vertical glazing bars with decorative capitals, though these are partially obscured by modern signage. The upper floors have original sashes, with those on the first floor topped by muted Gothic lintels. Above the second floor windows the eaves are a hybrid of bracketed and dental course. The right hand side of the building has a doorway with a high status stone surround of eclectic design. At the rear is a contemporary industrial wing attached to the main block. This kind of property which combines industrial, commercial and residential premises were a common feature of the Black Country during the 19th century but good examples such as this are increasingly rare. 2006

Street: Stafford Street

Town: Walsall

Property: Nos. 236-238

Remarks: Pair of Georgian townhouses, converted to shops later C19. Three storeys in red brick. First floor windows have good Regency lintels and modern 'imitation sash' wooden windows. No. 238 also has a stone cornice, absent from next door, which may be slightly later in date. The matching shop fronts are good, and are probably mid-Victorian. They are divided by an unusual corbel in the form of a man's bearded face, this may or may not relate to the original trade of the shop. No. 236 has the added feature of a 1940s or 50s hand painted advertisement hoarding for 'Orantips tea' on its side elevation, including a picture of 'Little Miss Barber', who says 'always ask for Orantips'. No. 238 is of local and national historic importance as the home of one of the 'Walsall Anarchists', who scandalised Victorian society. It is marked by a blue plaque. 2006

Street: Stafford Street

Town: Walsall

Property: The Prince Blucher PH

Remarks: Lofty LC19 public house with first floor clubroom. Three storeys and three bays with a gabled centre bay. It is executed in red brick with terracotta dressings and has centre bay window at first floor level. The ground and first floor windows contain some stained glass, stylistically Art Nouveau. The ground floor is clad in dark green faience and has pilasters of the same material with decorative capitals, acting as a division between the central windows and door and the side doors (both of which are blocked). The pub's unusual name derives from Gebhard Leberecht von Blucher who led the Prussian army at the battle of Waterloo. At the apex of the gable are the initials NWB in terracotta relating to the North Worcestershire Brewery who constructed the property. 2006

Town: Walsall

Property: 10 Vicarage Place

Early C19, two storey former dwellinghouse of strong symmetrical appearance to the front elevation. Flemish bond red brick with slate tiled roof. Windows sashed with later Victorian 2 over 2 sashes, replacements, where originals were likely to be 6 over 6 sashes currently on neighbouring 11/11A. Windows are dressed with capitals. Decorative door case, with columns either side. Stripped and varnished 6 panelled front door with slightly projecting pitched canopy. Chimney stacks have been lowered in height with three modern pots per stack. Later Victorian extensions to the rear of the property probably to house workshops. 2009

Town: Walsall

Property: 11/11A Vicarage Place

Early C19, two storey former. Flemish bond red brick with slate tiled roof. Windows, 6 over 6 sashes. Windows are dressed with capitals. Decorative door case, with columns either side and pediment. Modern replacement panelled front door. Insertion of timber shopfront to left hand side. Chimney stacks have been lowered in height with three modern pots per stack. Extension to the rear of the property in modest style with modern casement windows, probably former workshops due to the form of the window openings – a contrast to the more formal, domestic appearance of the front elevation. Extension has painted brick, roofed with plain clay tiles. Some remaining cast iron downpipes with two hoppers. 2009

Street: Walsall Road

Town: Old Bush Inn Public House

Property: Pelsall

Remarks: Victorian Public House consisting of a two storey building consisting of three main sections. The building features as a prominent landmark, upon Pelsall Common. The largest principal 'L-shaped' section is the youngest, which dates circa 1890 that is of a symmetrical appearance with a slightly projected gabled central section. The two other sections are more modest in scale and in terms of architectural detailing, but are older, probably dating from the early Victorian period, though the internal structure of the building may date even earlier. Built in red brick which is painted on the front elevation with render to the side and rear elevations, with exception of the chimneys and one modern rear extension. Roof is tiled in slate to all sections, except for felt on the rear flat roofed extensions to the rear. The main central chimney survives in its original form and height, with three tiers, including the chimney to the middle section though the other two chimneys to the side have had their stacks shortened. Timber casement windows some of which are segmented headed. The front elevation has features of interest which include a timber canopy to main door entrance, a string course consisting of contrasting terracotta motif detailing and more terracotta and corbelling to the eaves. Some modern flat roof extensions have been erected to the rear which have little architectural and historic merit, but they don't interfere with the overall form and interest of the building. 2009
